

Why become an ACP member?

Join us—we are stronger together.

Medical Students

Explore a career in internal medicine with FREE medical student membership. ACP medical student membership is open to medical students enrolled in any U.S. medical school or any school listed in the International Medical Education Directory (IMED).

Medical Student Members enjoy a wide variety of benefits to help you navigate internal medicine clerkship, prepare for residency, and plan your potential internal medicine career, such as:

- Free digital access to top-tier publications to enhance your medical knowledge, including Annals of Internal Medicine, ACP Internist, and ACP Hospitalist, and the clinical decision-support tool DynaMed®
- ACP IMPact, a monthly newsletter just for ACP medical students that provides information about internal medicine and the subspecialties, personal stories from current internists and medical students, clinical information, and more.
- Local and national medical student abstract competitions to showcase your knowledge and enhance your CV.
- Steep discounts on many of ACP's programs, products, and services.
- A free subscription to ACP JournalWise® so you can keep up with the latest literature from over 120 medical journals on the information that you're most interested in.
- A variety of helpful resources to prepare you for residency through our residency database, including tips for residency application and interviews.
- Opportunities to get involved in ACP's advocacy and grassroots efforts to raise awareness about the changing climate of health care and communicate with legislators on issues that affect patient care, the graduate medical education system, and more.
- Representation by ACP's Council of Medical Student Members to ensure that issues important to medical students are addressed by national leadership.

Stay a step ahead with tools and resources to navigate internal medicine clerkship and prepare for residency. Take advantage of a complimentary ACP membership today, and enjoy these benefits and more!