New York Chapter Prepares for Leadership Event

It has been a busy month for NYACP, as staff has been preparing for the Leadership event in Albany from February 21-23.

The highlight of this three-day event at the Desmond Hotel will be the Leadership Conference, where physicians and Chapter leaders from across New York State convene to discuss resolutions that have been presented by the membership. The Leadership Conference will feature two keynote presentations; one will be a panel on Artificial Intelligence and the other will be Healthcare Cybersecurity. The conference also gives an opportunity for future Chapter leaders to network and interact one-on-one with current and past leaders.

There will also be a panel on advocacy featuring Assemblyman John McDonald III and NYACP Executive Director Linda Lambert, CAE, as well as a presentation on how Chapter advocacy efforts impact policy at the state and national level.

The Leadership Conference will play host to a Poster Competition for medical students and residents, featuring poster categories in clinical vignette, quality, and research. A Jeopardy-style Dr.'s Dilemma competition will also be held, where 20 teams from around New York State will compete in a battle of clinical knowledge and quick thinking.

A Buprenorphine eligibility waiver training course proctored by Kelly Ramsey, MD, FACP will be featured as well, for local members and residents.
